South Fayette Elementary Learns to Jump Against Drugs

South Fayette Township, PA – On November 1, South Fayette Elementary students learned valuable lessons about staying healthy and saying no to drugs. In a day of events organized by physical education teacher Mr. Jim Bohn, Mark Rothstein talked to the kids and showed off his rope jumping prowess. He challenged the kids to live healthy, drug-free lives in his presentation to the entire student body. Throughout the day, Mark also took part in physical education classes and gave the students hands-on experience with rope jumping.

Mark has also established two world records for marathon rope jumping. His most recent was jumping continuously for more than 36 hours. Mark combines his skills as a professional rope jumper, educator, entertainer, athlete and role model to ensure a quality program.
